Mr. Jackson is charged with four individual counts of committing lewd acts with a child. In order to find Mr. Jackson guilty of any single count of committing lewd acts, the government must prove the facts relating to each element of that the particular count occurred beyond a reasonable doubt. In other words, if the jury cannot unanimously agree that a particular set of facts as alleged in a particular count has been proved beyond a reasonable doubt, Mr. Jackson is entitled to a verdict of not guilty. (See Blakely v. Washington (2004) 124 S.Ct. 2531; Apprendi v. New Jersey 530 U.S. 466.)

SPECIAL JURY INSTRUCTION NUMBER 6

2 Exhibit __ was introduced by the prosecution in this case. It was one of several interviews of 3 Gavin Arvizo. The tape was introduced only for the demeanor of Gavin Arvizo and cannot be used to
4 establish the truth of anything he or the interviewers said unless there was other testimony or evidence
5 received in this trial as to any specific statements made during that interview. You may consider the 6 words said for the purpose of evaluating the demeanor of Gavin Arvizo but you may not consider that
7 they prove the truth of the matters stated.

8 The Court entered this ruling before the tape was allowed to be played. Therefore, counsel for 9 Mr. Jackson was limited in their cross-examination of Detective Robel and were not allowed to question
10 regarding inconsistent statements of Gavin Arvizo or otherwise impeach what Gavin Arvizo said on the 11 tape.

12 Furthermore, a case must come to an end. Rebuttal is limited to what was presented by the 13 defense and surrebutal would be limited to what was presented in rebuttal. The prosecution did not
14 present any rebuttal evidence to the defense evidence regarding the inconsistencies of Gavin Arvizo's
15 statements or impeachment of him for truthfulness. Because the tape was only offered for demeanor, the 16 defense was not allowed to present surrebutal concerning inconsistent statements by Gavin Arvizo or 17 otherwise impeach what Gavin Arvizo said on the tape or in his other interviews.

2 Janet Arvizo was allowed by this Court to assert her rights under the Fifth Amendment to the
3 United States Constitution regarding any questioning that may have tended to incriminate her for welfare
4 fraud and for perjury. The Court allowed evidence to be presented regarding fraud and perjury from 5 other witnesses, however, the defense was not allowed to cross-examine Ms. Arvizo on these subjects.
6 Ms. Arvizo has a right to refuse to testify regarding any questions which may tend to incriminate her
7 regarding fraud and perjury. On the other hand, a person accused in a criminal case has the right to 8 confront and cross-examine witnesses against him which usually means that a person who asserts the 9 Fifth Amendment as to part of his or her testimony is prevented from testifying at all.

10 In balancing these two rights, the Court determined that it would allow Ms. Arvizo to testify and 11 to assert the Fifth Amendment. This had the effect of limiting the defendant's constitutional right of 12 Confrontation. Therefore, for the purposes of this trial, you are allowed to draw an adverse inference
13 from the refusal of Janet Arvizo to testify or be cross-examined regarding fraud and perjury.

2 Evidence has been introduced regarding the commission of welfare fraud and perjury by Janet
3 Arvizo. If true, these crimes would be felonies under the laws of California and the laws of the United
4 States. If you believe these crimes to have been committed by her, they should be considered by you in
5 determining her credibility and whether or not she has told the truth in these proceedings. The fact that 6 prosecutors have failed to prosecute her for these crimes should not be considered in determining 7 whether or not she committed them.

1
2 You heard the testimony of Cynthia Montgomery who was called as a witness by the prosecution.
3 She testified on the condition that she be granted immunity. In response to this, the prosecution asked
4 the Court to grant her immunity and the Court issued such an order. The order prevents Ms.
5 Montgomery from being prosecuted based on any information that she gave during the course of her
6 testimony. It does not prevent the prosecution from prosecuting her for perjury committed on the 7 witness stand in this case. However, prosecution of this witness or any other witness who is willfully
8 false is solely within the discretion of the prosecution.

9 You may consider the fact that Ms. Montgomery demanded and was granted immunity in 10 weighing her credibility as a witness.

1 SPECIAL INSTRUCTION NUMBER 10

2 Although there was some initial confusion, the attorney client privilege as to Mr. Geragos was
3 waived only through November 18, 2003, the day of the search warrants and the arrest warrant for Mr.
4 Jackson. This was allowed because a person has the right to confidential communications with his
5 lawyer and the right for that lawyer to engage professionals to assist him or her in the preparation of the 6 client's defense. Once the adversary proceedings commence - and here, at the least, they commenced on 7 November 18, 2003 - other rules apply to the duties of lawyers for the prosecution and the defense to 8 disclose information to each other.

9 Before November 18, 2003, and specifically during the months of February and March 2003, Mr.
10 Geragos was a percipient witness to certain events. He was allowed to testify to those events and he was 11 allowed to be cross-examined regarding those events. However, what he may have learned after the 12 adversary proceedings commenced is both not relevant to these proceedings and to allow 13 cross-examination into it would violate Mr. Jackson's Constitutional right to counsel. Therefore, I
14 accepted a waiver of the attorney client privilege up to November 18, 2003 and I limited the 15 cross-examination of the prosecution to the time period before that date. You are not to consider this 16 limitation in any way in your deliberations and you are not to speculate as to anything that may have 17 occurred within the attorney client relationship after the November 18, 2003 date.

18 In addition, there was a reference by one of the witnesses called by the prosecutions, J. O'Bryan,
19 that he had requested documents and they had not been provided. You should not consider this remark
20 for any purpose. Both the prosecution and the defense have a statutory duty to deliver certain documents
21 and items of evidence to each other, however, there is no requirement that a defendant in a criminal case
22 provided documents to a prosecution witness. You must not allow any inference regarding this 23 testimony to enter into your deliberations in any way.

1
2 The jury is advised that the parties who called witnesses had a duty to admonish those witnesses
3 to follow the Court's rules. Those rules include a rule that witnesses not discuss their testimony with 4 other witnesses.

5 You have heard evidence that certain witnesses have discussed their testimony with other
6 witnesses both before and after taking the stand. You may consider this conduct, if you find it to have
7 occurred, as evidence that the testimony of such witnesses has been tainted. You may give such 8 evidence of taint such weight as you may find to be appropriate and you may find that the taint of such 9 misconduct to be such that the testimony of said witnesses should be disregarded in its entirety unless 10 the remaining evidence supports such testimony.
